Hubert Harrison:
The Voice of Harlem
Radicalism, 1883-1918
Wednesday
November 19, 7:30 pm

Hubert Harrison, (1883-1927) was a brilliant writer, orator, educator, critic, and political activist who was described by the historian Joel A. Rogers as the foremost Afro-American intellect of his time" and by A. Philip Randolph as "the father of Harlem Radicalism." Harrison played unique, signal roles in the largest class radical movement (socialism) and the largest race radical movement (the New Negro/Clarvey) movement of his era. He was the foremost Black organizer, agitator, and theoretician of the Socialist Party of New York, the founder of the "New Negro" movement, the editor of the "Negro World," and the principal radical influence on the Clarvey movement. A self-described "radical intellectual," he was a highly paid journalist and critic (reportedly the first regular Black book reviewer), a social labor leader, a serious organizer (with both the Hotel Workers and the Pullman Porters), an IWW supporter, a speaker at the 1913 Patterson strike, a freethinker and early proponent of birth control, a supporter of Black writers and artists, a leading community-based public intellectual, and a bibliophile who helped transform the 135th Street Public Library into an international center for research in Black culture (known as the world-famous Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture).

Theodore W. Allen (1919-2005) was an independent, anti-white supremacist working class scholar. A former coal miner, factory worker, teacher, postal mailhandler, and Brooklyn Public Library worker, Allen pioneered "white skin privilege" analysis in 1965, co-authored White Skin Deep in 1967, wrote the ground-breaking Class Struggle and the Origin of Racial Slavery: The Invention of the White Race in 1975 (Center for Study of Working Class Life, SUNY Stony Brook), and authored the two-volume classic The Invention of the White Race, (1994, 1997; Verso Books, 2012).

Jeffrey B. Perry edited A Hubert Harrison Reader and authored The Voice of Harlem Radicalism, 1883-1918. Perry also contributed new front and back matter to the new edition of Allen's The Invention of the White Race and he authored "The Developing Conscience and Some Insights From Hubert Harrison and Theodore W. Allen on the Centrality of the Fight Against White Supremacy".
